Question No. : 1

The coming-in of private airlines in the aviation sector has actually had one unintended consequence: the delays at the top 5 airports in the country have increased by 40%. The aviation ministry took up a project to assess the reasons for this delay and came out with the proposal of constructing a new terminal and runaway at each of these airports.

Some of the following statements weaken the argument of the aviation ministry:

I. The most important cause of delay is lack of fog detection equipment at these airports, which are based in cities all impacted by fog.
II. The air traffic control equipment at these airports has not been changed for the last two decades and it frequently malfunctions.
III. Commercial flights at these airports account for 20% of the flight traffic.
IV. Private airlines, in order to poach customers, are running competing flights on same time, even thought occupancy for these flights is less than 30% each.

Identify the number of above statements that weaken the argument of the aviation ministry except:

A) I B) II C) III D) IV

Question No. : 2

Laptop Manufacturer Bapple's Advertisement: The Electronic Device Guild reports that the Bacbook Air laptop has the least number of complete product replacements per complaint registered for laptops in its price range category. This shows that Bacbook Air is the most reliable laptop available today.

Which of the following, if true, most seriously weaken the argument of the advertisement?

I. The laptops in the category of Bacbook Air report fifteen times the number of average complaints that laptops of other categories report.
II. The overall number of complaints for Bacbook Air was multiple times the number of complaints for other laptops in its price range category.
III. The number of replacements per complaint for Bacbook Air and the other computers in its price range is pretty substantial.

A) I & II B) II & III C) I & III D) All of the above

Question No. : 3

In the modern day India, one significant change has been in the availability of educated work-force, especially engineering graduates. The proliferation of engineering colleges has seen a boom in the number of engineers available. Yet if one looks at the civil engineering industry, one sees that there is a severe shortage of staff. The general belief floating in the market was that the hiring standards of the civil engineering industry are high and this has caused issues. But in fact, the real reason for the shortage has been the lack of improvement in working conditions in the industry and the fact that salaries of civil engineers are lower than those of other streams of engineering.

Which of the following, if true, most strongly supports the argument above?

A) The current educational level of engineers entering the civil industry space is higher than in the past.
B) Many students have cited that they chose other streams of engineering as they knew of the lower pay standards in civil engineering.
C) Some people feel that the current educational facilities available in civil engineering departments across the country are probably the best in the country.
D) The low pay in the civil engineering sector has forced some engineers from the field to shift to management related streams.

Question No. : 4

When young theatre students enter the world of performing artists as theatre and art cinema artists, their established and senior theatre colleagues accept them as men and women with similar interests of serving the art. Therefore, when these young artists gain popularity and shift to mainstream forms of acting such as commercial cinema and television shows, the established and senior artists believe that these individuals should no longer be regarded as true servants of theatre and art of acting.

The perception with which the young theatre artists who join films and TV shows are held by established and senior theatre artists assumes that:

A) young theatre students cannot become cinema and television artists without learning the tricks of the trade from theatre and art cinema, and then using the same in other forms.
B) theatre and art cinema depend upon a dedicated set of individuals and losing them comes in the way of serving the purpose of theatre and art cinema.
C) existing commercial cinema and television show artists do not serve art the way they should.
D) commercial cinema and television shows do not serve the art mentioned in the paragraph.

Question No. : 10

The criminal justice system needs to change. The system could be more just if it allowed victims the opportunity to confront the person who has harmed them. Also, mediation between victims and their offenders would give the offenders a chance to apologize for the harm they have done.

This paragraph best supports the statement that victims of a crime should-

A) learn to forgive their offenders and lead normal lives B) have the right to confront their offenders
C) learn the art of mediation and negotiation D) insist that their offenders be punished the same way

QNo:- 1 ,Correct Answer:- C

Explanation:-
In the given case, three statements weaken the argument of the airline industry.
In order to prove that the aviation ministry's argument is flawed, we need to show that the addition of a new runway and terminal would not solve the given problem.
Let us analyze each statement and see how it works in the given context:
Statement I: It provides another reason for delay and hence weakens the aviation ministry's argument.
Statement II: It provides another reason for delay and hence weakens the aviation ministry's argument.
Statement IV: It provides a scenario wherein capacity expansion at the airport will not help. The problem is the excess number of flights being run and this means adding another runaway might complicate matters further.
Thus, three statements weaken the aviation ministry's argument.

Statement III*: It* strengthens the argument by showcasing that 20% of the airport's capacity is indulged in commercial activities.
Hence option C

QNo:- 2 ,Correct Answer:- A

Explanation:-
In this case, only statements I and II weaken the argument.
Statement I showcases how the overall reliability of the whole category is questionable.
Statement II showcases how Bacbook Air has far higher number of complaints, even though its replacement might be low. This impacts its reliability.

Statement III does not impact the argument and in fact strengthens it, as we know the complaints for Bacbook Air are lesser, and if there is a substantial difference, it makes Bacbook even better.

QNo:- 3 ,Correct Answer:- D

Explanation:-
In this case, option D most strongly supports the given argument.
It provides proof for the existing state of affairs in the industry.

Options A and C do not impact the argument for the salary mentioned in the given case, and Option B effectively implies a shortage in engineers (which is not the case).

QNo:- 4 ,Correct Answer:- D

Explanation:-
Option A is ruled out as no such information (given in the option) is talked about in the paragraph.
Option B is ruled out again as it finds no mention in the paragraph.
Option C is ruled out as the subject of the paragraph is theatre/art cinema artists and not commercial cinema and TV artists.

Option D is the valid answer choice*, as it reflects the connection between the conclusion (that these artists should not be regarded as true servants) and the fact (artists shifting to TV and commercial cinema).*

QNo:- 5 ,Correct Answer:- D

Explanation:-
The information given in the question statement assumes that the process of nationalisation is not limited to any particular industry or country

QNo:- 6 ,Correct Answer:- A

Explanation:- The passage mentions that husbands and wives both are working "these days".
It can inferred that this was not the case earlier, which means option B can be inferred.
"... increased today as compared to earlier" gives away the fact that income level was lower earlier. Hence, option C can be inferred.
Option D is a probability which can be inferred.

Option A is the only one the passage does not talk about, as there is no mention of incomes of husbands and wives separately.
Hence, the right answer choice is option A.

QNo:- 7 ,Correct Answer:- C

Explanation:-
Option C is most appropriate conclusion of the given argument.

Options A and B are ruled out as the statement is about own behavior.
Option D is wrong as the author advocates that people should not be punished for behavior over which they do not have control. Therefore, it is implied that people do not have full control on their behaviour

QNo:- 8 ,Correct Answer:- B

Explanation:-
Option B exemplifies the situation given in the question.
Marry agreed upon in writing to pay a monthly rent for her apartment and she has failed to do this for the last three months. Therefore, she has violated her apartment lease.

QNo:- 9 ,Correct Answer:- D

Explanation:- Option D is the answer as author's daughter accepts the award on behalf of her deceased mother.

QNo:- 10 ,Correct Answer:- B

Explanation:- This answer is clearly stated in the 2nd sentence of the paragraph. So option B.

Option A is ruled out as the lines do not mention that the victims should forgive their offenders.
As for option C, although mediation is mentioned, the statement does not indicate that victims should be the mediators.
There is no support in the passage for option D.
